Romance Dana Percec, 2012-03-15 Romance: The History of a Genre is a collection of essays devoted to the highly popular and no less controversial genre of romance. A genre often disregarded for its stereotypical language, shallow characters and predictable plots dismissed as women's fiction accused of conventionalism, romance is a genre which after ups and downs in its millennial history is now holding a leading position on the international bookselling market. This achievement has also been possible with the endorsement of contemporary media and modern technology cinema, television, the Internet etc. Much has been written in both traditional and more recent literary theory about the origins and evolution of the early forms of romance from the classical Antiquity through the Middle Ages and into the Renaissance and early modernity in Western Europe. A corpus which is becoming more and more substantial today is already available about the gendered status of contemporary romance both in terms of the writing ethos and in terms of reader response with theories coming from the combined areas of feminism, social sciences and psychoanalysis. The aim of the present volume is that of noting the fluid character of the genre with the great number of subcategories mixed and hybrid bringing evidence to the polymorphous nature of contemporary popular culture. This book proposes in four parts and twelve chapters a fascinating and multifaceted journey into the history, substance and geography of romance. From its origins to the latest developments from its subgenres to its features from print to film from television to Facebook, romance comes in various shapes and colours which the reader can fully explore. The journey in the world of romance takes the reader from familiar corners to less familiar ones from North America, Great Britain, Romania or Turkey to India or South Africa. The numerous approaches to romance generate diverse data, varied analytical frameworks and interesting, fresh and solidly grounded findings. The Readers' Advisory Guide to Genre Fiction Joyce G. Victorian Melodrama in the Twenty-First Century Katie Kapurch,2016-08-24 This book examines melodramatic impulses in Charlotte Brontë's Jane Eyre and Stephenie Meyer's Twilight Saga as well as the series film adaptations and fan authored texts. Attention to conventions such as crying, victimization, and happy endings in the context of the Twilight Jane Eyre relationship reveals melodrama as an empowering mode of communication for girls. Although melodrama has saturated popular culture since the nineteenth century, its expression in texts for about and by girls has been remarkably under theorized. By defining melodrama however through its Victorian lineages, Katie Kapurch recognizes melodrama's aesthetic form and rhetorical function in contemporary girl culture while also demonstrating its legacy since the nineteenth century. Informed by feminist theories of literature and film, Kapurch shows how melodrama is worthy of serious consideration since the mode critiques limiting social constructions of postfeminist girlhood and at the same time enhances intimacy between girls both characters and readers

Genre, Reception, and Adaptation in the Twilight Series Anne Morey,2012 Avoiding the reductive tendency of some recent scholarship to focus on the purported shortcomings of the Twilight series with respect to literary merit and political correctness, this volume adopts a cultural studies framework to explore the range of scholarly concerns awakened by the Twilight novels and their filmic adaptations. In so doing, the contributors show the series's importance for studies of popular culture, gender, reception history, and young adult literature.

Psychoanalysing Horror Cinema Mary Wild,2025-11-28 Inspired by her Wild About Horror segments on the Evolution of Horror Podcast, Psychoanalysing Horror Cinema sees Mary Wild investigate 50 films across six core subgenres: Mind, Body, Nature, Aliens, Vampires, and Home Invasion, through close readings of key titles including Mulholland Drive, Black Swan, Jaws, Predator, Twilight, and Misery. Informed by Freudian, Lacanian, and Jungian theory, Wild deconstructs each film with her signature blend of insight and playfulness. Writing with startling emotional clarity, she invites readers to engage with popular media through a psychoanalytic lens, treating films as projective tests to uncover meaningful subjective associations. Spanning an eclectic range of titles from arthouse to blockbuster, these case studies reveal how genre cinema expresses universal psychological truths. Referencing both classic and contemporary horror, this stylish compendium renders complex theory accessible without sacrificing depth. Featuring a foreword by Mike Muncer, Psychoanalysing Horror Cinema speaks to students, cinephiles, and curious general readers alike. Practising and trainee analysts seeking fresh ways to engage with clients will find inspiration in its pages. Addressing both seasoned theorists and those new to psychoanalysis, Mary Wild champions horror as a vital site of introspection, catharsis, and erotic awakening.
