Psst-- I Have Something to Tell You, Mi Amor Ana Castillo, 2005 Comprised of both a one act and a two act play this powerful dramatic pairing centers on Sister Dianna Ortiz who was kidnapped raped and tortured by U S sponsored Guatemalan security forces in 1989

Transnational Chicana Perspectives on Ana Castillo Bernadine Hernández, Karen Roybal, 2021-06-15 For more than forty years Chicana author Ana Castillo has produced novels poems and critical essays that forge connections between generations challenge borders around race gender and sexuality and critically engage transnational issues of space identity and belonging Her contributions to Latinx cultural production and to Chicana feminist thought have transcended and contributed to feminist praxis ethnic literature and border studies throughout the Americas Transnational Chicana Perspectives on Ana Castillo is the first edited collection that focuses on Castillo s oeuvre which directly confronts what happens in response to cultural displacement mixing and border crossing Divided into five sections this collection thinks about Castillo s poetics language and form as well as thematic issues such as borders immigration gender sexuality and transnational feminism From her first political poetry Otro Canto published in 1977 to her mainstream novels such as The Mixquiahuala Letters So Far From God and The Guardians this collection aims to unravel how Castillo s writing impacts people of color around the globe and works in solidarity with other third world feminisms

War Echoes Ariana E. Vigil, 2014-07-10 War Echoes examines how Latina o cultural production has engaged with U S militarism in the post Viet Nam era Analyzing literature alongside film memoir and activism Ariana E Vigil highlights the productive interplay among social political and cultural movements while exploring Latina o responses to U S intervention in Central America and the Middle East These responses evolved over the course of the late twentieth and early twenty first centuries from support for anti imperial war as seen in Alejandro Murguía s Southern Front to the disavowal of all war articulated in works such as Demetria Martinez s Mother Tongue and Camilo Mejía s Road from Ar Ramadi With a focus on how issues of race class gender and sexuality intersect and are impacted by war and militarization War Echoes illustrates how this country s bellicose foreign policies have played an integral part in shaping U S Latina o culture and identity and given rise to the creation of works that recognize how militarized violence and values such as patriarchy hierarchy and obedience are both enacted in domestic spheres and propagated abroad

MultiCultural Review , 2006 259 Leaps, the Last Immortal Alicia Kozameh, 2007 Alicia Kozameh s 259 Leaps is a surprising engaging exhilarating book from a gifted writer with a major tale to tell the contemporary experience of exile not only because of her prison experience in Argentina and her wandering years in many countries but because exile is in this book the very condition of language Exile is the site of communication and the locus of speech it is the excess of life that only language can shelter and host The writer's pilgrimage thus traces the construction of the book and the book humanizes the space of exile Julio Ortega professor Brown University Latina Magazine ,2004 New Books on Women and Feminism ,2007 American Book Publishing Record ,2005 Conjunto ,2004 Central America ,1996 Here is the perfect guide to take with you to the great Pacific Northwest and Alaska This guide is packed with information not found in other guides The students at Berkeley outline the best cheap places for lodging and dining the best trails for hiking or biking It's all here with comprehensive maps Arms of America: Latina Literary Re-Interventions & Reinventions Guadalupe Escobar,2014 As the fiftieth anniversary of testimonio approaches in 2016 Arms of America reflects on the aftermath of states of emergency and reevaluates the continuous development of the genre Drawing on the retrospective nonlinear women's narratives about Central America including the writings of Claribel Alegria Gioconda Belli Demetria Martinez and Ana Castillo I argue that such testimonial texts intervene in the war of words historical silencing as cultural memories and timeless consciousness raising tools Contesting the claim that testimonio has an expiration date predicated on immediate crisis my readings of mixed genre testimonies such as Alegria's Ashes of Izalco 1966 and Belli's The Inhabited Woman 1988 together with newly written works like Martinez's Confessions of a Berlitz Tape Chicana 2005 and Castillo's Psst I Have Something to Tell You Mi Amor 2005 reveal the ways in which wartime and postwar testimonial texts alike recover hidden histories related to the body from labor in the globalized garment industry to sexual agency within revolutionary movements to the inner war of depression to torture traceable to the School of the Americas The inclusion of U.S. Latina testimonial writers is meant to engage in a transhemispheric dialogue that complicates former approaches to this decolonial literary tradition strictly bound to Latin America applying postcolonial queer and feminist theories I illumine the interweavings of unofficial truths in literature to explore their vexed relationship to history temporality and materiality Arms of America challenges the commonly held assumption that testimonio is against literature by shedding light on women's writings simultaneously engaged in transtemporal activism and art
