Study Guide Jeffrey D. Green, Jody L. Davis, 2003      Psychobabble & Biobunk Carol Tavris, 2001. This selection of opinion essays and book reviews by Carol Tavris, written for The Los Angeles Times, The New York Times, Scientific American, and other publications, applies psychological research and principles of scientific and critical thinking to issues in the news. As readers work their way interactively through the essays, thinking through the author's position and their own on the various issues, they engage and strengthen their critical thinking skills, e.g., asking questions and wondering, defining terms, examining the evidence, analyzing assumptions and biases, one's own and those of others, avoiding emotional reasoning, not oversimplifying, considering other interpretations, and tolerating uncertainty. Focuses on important areas such as Science vs. Pseudoscience, Controversies in Child Development, The Politics and Science of Gender Research, Applying Psychology to Social Issues, and Mental Disorder and Treatment. Individual essay topics include, for example, The Popularity of Predictions, Thinking Critically About Alternative Medicine, Thinking Critically About Mystical Messages, The Working Mother Debate, How Much Influence Do Mothers Have, How Much Influence Do Parents Have, How Critical Are the First Years of Life, The Interpretation of Differences, The Paradox of Gender, Biological Politics and the Study of Gender, Emotional Epidemics and Their Consequences, The Daycare Sex Abuse Scandals, Adolescent Violence, The Limits of Medication, and Thinking Critically About Psychotherapy. For anyone who wants to explore the psychological basis of current popular culture issues and to engage in and strengthen the critical thinking skills.

Teaching Peace Denny J. Weaver, Gerald Biesecker-Mast, 2003-09-08. This book opens a new frontier in understanding nonviolence. Discussions of peace and nonviolence usually focus on either moral theory or practical dimensions of applying nonviolence in conflict situations. Teaching Peace carries the discussion of nonviolence beyond ethics and into the rest of the academic curriculum. This book isn't just for religion or philosophy teachers; it is for all educators. Teaching Peace begins with a discussion rooted in Christian theology where nonviolence is so central and important. But it is clear that there are other paths to nonviolence and that one certainly doesn't have to be a Christian to practice nonviolence. The pieces that follow therefore show how a nonviolent perspective impacts disciplines across the curriculum from acting to biology to mathematics to psychology

The Believing Brain Michael Shermer, 2011-05-24 A wonderfully lucid accessible and wide ranging account of the boundary between justified and unjustified belief Sam Harris New York Times bestselling author of The Moral Landscape and The End of Faith In this work synthesizing thirty years of research psychologist historian of science and the world's best known skeptic Michael Shermer upends the traditional thinking about how humans form beliefs about the world Simply put beliefs come first and explanations for beliefs follow The brain Shermer argues is a belief engine From sensory data flowing in through the senses the brain naturally begins to look for and find patterns and then infuses those patterns with meaning Our brains connect the dots of our world into meaningful patterns that explain why things happen and these patterns become beliefs Once beliefs are formed the brain begins to look for and find confirmatory evidence in support of those beliefs which accelerates the process of reinforcing them and round and round the process goes in a positive feedback loop of belief confirmation Shermer outlines the numerous cognitive tools our brains engage to reinforce our beliefs as truths Interlaced with his theory of belief Shermer provides countless real world examples of how this process operates from politics economics and religion to conspiracy theories the supernatural and the paranormal Ultimately he demonstrates why science is the best tool ever devised to determine whether or not a belief matches reality A must read for everyone who wonders why religious and political beliefs are so rigid and polarized or why the other side is always wrong but somehow doesn't see it Dr Leonard Mlodinow physicist and author of The Drunkard's Walk and The Grand Design with Stephen Hawking
