THEMES

A Fatal Misreading

Scholar Charles Kinbote claims he is the exiled king of Zembria. He tells his story to poet John Shade, expecting Shade to turn the talk into his next poem. Now Shade is dead, and Kinbote must prove Shade's final 1,000 lines of poetry are really about the lost kingdom of Zembria.

Art &amp; Reality

For scholar Charles Kinbote, art trumps reality, but they share a resemblance.

Exile

Exiled King Charles of Zembria yearns for a nonexistent land.

Doubles &amp; Reflections

King, assassin, and poet are all pursued by doubles, or "doppelgängers."

Author

VLADIMIR NABOKOV
1899–1977

Nabokov was an aristocrat who enjoyed American motifs and looked down on the literary fashions of his era. Having fled the Russian Revolution of 1917, Nabokov made his home in Germany and France before settling in the United States. He is known for his examinations of art and unusual structures in his novels, which include Lolita (1955).

Main Characters

Kinbote

Vainglorious, snobbish, and needy; literary scholar who only reveals his identity to his confidant Shade

Shade

Rumpled, creaky-looking old man with a shambling gait, an ear for rhyme, and a heart riven by loss; America's second-best poet

Gradus

Possibly a figment of Kinbote's imagination; ice-cold killer who loathes novelty, thought, sex, and the Zemblan aristocracy

Symbols

Caves
Represent an ebb of hidden treasure and a retreat from society

Fire
Represents Shade destroying drafts and Kinbote borrowing glory

Mountains
Symbolize the exile of both Kinbote and King Charles

My work is finished. My poet is dead.
Kinbote, Commentary

Pale Fire by Vladimir Nabokov (Book Analysis) Bright Summaries, 2019-05-20 Unlock the more straightforward side of Pale Fire with this concise and insightful summary and analysis. This engaging summary presents an analysis of Pale Fire by Vladimir Nabokov. The book takes its name from a 999 line poem by the celebrated American poet John Shade which is accompanied by a lengthy commentary by his editor Charles Kinbote. After Shade's untimely death, Kinbote contrives to secure the rights to edit the poem from his widow but much of the commentary that follows is focused on his own preoccupations and paranoia, particularly with regard to his homeland of Zembla. The resulting work is a brilliant piece of metafiction which showcases Nabokov's mastery of style and form and leaves the reader continually unsure of Kinbote's true identity and relationship to John Shade. Acting and Reflecting Wilfried Sieg, 2012-12-06 In the fall of 1985, Carnegie Mellon University established a Department of Philosophy. The focus of the department is logic, broadly conceived: philosophy of science, in particular of the social sciences and linguistics. To mark the inauguration of the department, a daylong celebration was held on April 5, 1986. This celebration consisted of two keynote addresses by Patrick Suppes and Thomas Schwartz, seminars directed by members of the department, and a panel discussion on the computational model of mind moderated by Dana S. Scott. The various contributions, in modified and expanded form, are the core of this collection of essays, and they are, I believe, of more than parochial interest. They turn attention to substantive and reflective interdisciplinary work. The collection is divided into three parts. The first part gives perspectives i) on general features of the interdisciplinary enterprise in philosophy by Patrick Suppes, Thomas Schwartz, Herbert A. Simon, and Clark Glymour, and ii) on a particular topic that invites such interaction namely computational models of the mind with contributions by Gilbert Harman John Haugeland Jay McClelland and Allen Newell The second part contains mostly informal reports on concrete research done within that enterprise the research topics range from decision theory and the philosophy of economics through foundational problems in mathematics to issues in aesthetics and computational linguistics The third part is a postscriptum by Isaac Levi analyzing directions of computational work from his perspective History, Politics, Identity Marija Knežević, Aleksandra Nikcevic-Batricevic, 2009-03-26 Contributions reprinted in this book highlight some of the wide ranging ways in which the issues of culture and identity can be approached in a literary text while focusing on the ways in which cultural encounters have been changing both the world and its reflection in literature The beginning of the twenty first century is an appropriate time to repay careful attention to these issues Understanding how our perception of the Other changes with the concept of the world we inhabit we want to emphasize the rising importance of fostering cultural pluralism and global understanding For its argumentation strongly founded in recent literary studies and humanities in general its interdisciplinary nature and its focus on the actual global problems of abrupt cultural change and exchange its heightened understanding of the necessity of coexistence of differences in a changing world its spirit of tolerance and its international spirit in general we assume this collection will not only attract academic literary scholars but will also appeal to the general reading public Postwar Academic Fiction K.
