How can we best do this? Multiple studies suggest that instructional coaching, a school-centred approach to developing teachers, is one of the best options we have. However, to make the most of instructional coaching, we must be clear about what it means. In Responsive Coaching, Josh Goodrich examines contrasting models, combining research and practical experience to build an approach that adapts to meet the needs of individual teachers. This enables coaches to flex their style depending on where a teacher is on their journey towards expertise. Josh distils his approach into five areas: unpacking essential research and providing concrete examples of great coaching in action to provide a toolkit of practical responsive coaching strategies that support teachers to make continuous improvements. Combining robust research evidence from a wide range of fields with the practical wisdom of experienced teachers, leaders and coaches, the book is a toolkit for building an instructional coaching approach that works for every teacher.      The Building News and Engineering Journal, 1873      Journal of the American Institute of Architects, 1922      Practical Town Planning John Sutton Nettlefold, 1914      Journal of the American Institute of Architects American Institute of Architects, 1918      Insight Indonesia, 2010      A Reconstruction in Teacher-training that Accords with Modern Educational Ideals Alethea Hebron Washington, 1928      National Elementary Principal, 1940      California Quarterly of Secondary Education, 1927      The Builder, 1900      The National Elementary Principal, 1941      Building, 1900
